

Paul Zink

A graduate of Antioch College in the United States, Paul Zink continued his training on organic farms and gardens throughout the US, New Zealand, Japan, Panama and Costa Rica. His expertise includes the design, installation and maintenance of customized food-forest garden systems for homeowners, hoteliers and conference centers. His tireless breadfruit efforts have resulted in an important collaboration between EARTH University in Costa Rica and Cultivaris via Global Breadfruit. As a Project Director for Global Breadfruit, he continues the introduction of breadfruit into Central and South America. Paul is bilingual in English and Spanish and brings over 10 years of practical experience to this project.
